HARTFORD.

The American School at Hartford for the Deaf, as its correct title runs, will have a fine new home when present building plans are completed. It expects to occupy its new quarters in September, 1921. Work is being rushed as fast as practicable at the site on North Main Street, West Hartford. There the school's ninety-acre tract runs east and west to Mountain road, lying between the two streets. It is good farming land and has orchards. A pretty little brook runs through it.

The architecture of the new building is colonial and the structure of brick. It recalls the general style of the old asylum building on Asylum Avenue. Isaac A. Allen, Jr., Inc., of Hartford, are the architects. William A. Boring, of New York, is the consulting architect. The building will be absolutely fireproof, having reinforced concrete on the exterior walls. The roof will be of dark green, covering concrete slabs called "naillode." The partitions will all be fireproof, and following the practice demanded by insurance authorities, fire doors will be installed where required. The pillars will be painted white. The work of the Hartford architects is well known, while the consulting architect is said to have had much experience in institutional work.

THREE STORIED BUILDING.

The general structural plan is of a large imposing three-storied administration building, with 286 feet frontage and forty feet depth. It has two wings of three stories each. Connected with the south wing by a covered passage is a separate building containing the primary department. Similarly connected with the north wing are the heating plant, boilers, work shops and laundry, also in a separate building. An arcade in the rear connects the two buildings, enclosing two innercourts between the two wings of the main building, which, separated by the dining-room, make two grassed courts. The kitchen, also a separate building, is between the primary department and the boiler plant building, making four structures in all.

Beyond the porte-cochere is the main administrative building on the first floor of which are a reception room, the executive offices, library, eleven class rooms, a club room for girls to the south, one for boys on the north, and locker rooms, clothes closets and toilet facilities. A corridor runs the length of the building on either side of which are executive offices and class rooms. The dining-room is in the center of the building to the rear of the main entrance and across the corridor, and is connected with the kitchen building behind it.

LARGE ASSEMBLY HALL

On the second floor are fourteen classrooms, a study, a study-hall for girls, one for boys, a supervisor's room and a matron's room. In the south and north wings, respectively, are the girls' and boys' dormitories, with toilet facilities. Over the dining-room is the assembly hall, which runs up two stories, making a large attractive room. It will have a stage and a fireproof gallery booth for motion pictures, of which the deaf and dumb children are fond. They are said to be expert enough to read the lips of the screen actors, and thus, to them, the movies are realistic stage performances. The children roar with laughter when shown certain motion pictures. The words that accompany the picture (as spoken by the actors) are the cause of the amusement. The assembly hall will seat 250. Above the kitchen are the women servants' quarters.

The third floor of the administration building has on its west side separate rooms for the infirmary, for boys and for girls, and quarters for nurses and attendants. A diet kitchen is also provided. Then there will be an art room, two small and one large sewing rooms, a room for the cooking class, besides extra space for six sleeping rooms for either scholars or teachers.

In the primary department building on the first floor are the girls' dormitories, a room for the matron, a reception room, guest room and toilet and locker rooms. The same plan follows on the second floor for the primary boys. It is expected to have a large sitting-room here.

SHOP FOR "SLOYD" WORK.

In the basement of the boiler house are the boiler and coal storage room. On the first floor is the laundry, a printing room, varnishing-room and teachers' office. On the second floor are the carpenter, cabinetmakers' and "Sloyd" shops. "Sloyd" is elemental carpentry as taught the little fellows. There are also six bed-rooms for male servants. In addition to the present structures, plans for a gymnasium and a superintendent's house have been drawn,

Hampshire, Vermont and Connecticut, but principally from Connecticut. Plans were drawn to accommodate 250 pupils, but the dormitory arrangements were cut down to accommodate about 200, as there are about 200 deaf children in this State. The assembly hall and dining room are, however, constructed to care for 250 pupils. At the present time there are about 160 pupils at the school, of whom 140 are from Connecticut. At Mystic is another school for the deaf. It has about sixty pupils. Present arrangements can thus easily care for the Mystic pupils, should this at any time become necessary. Plans have been made

Hotel Cleft was opposite. Mr. Davidson, who was his companion, and had escaped by just a brush, called for aid, and the hotel management telephoned to the Emergency Hospital, from which Le Clercq was subsequently taken to the Fairmont Hospital under the care of his wife. The doctors shook their head and said, "A fractured skull. Only one out of ten could survive such a shock." It was Charley's good constitution which was standing him in good stead. Who of us do not remember him as the Beau Brummel of thirty years ago, when he strolled over Broadway (I am tempted to say Broadway Street again), his body bent forward to make a whole and the publisher for whom Le Clercq works make a daily visit to the hospital, and is paying his salary along. I have seen specimens of lithographic art by deaf designers in Europe, and having seen Le Clercq's work, I have to question whether he is now the leading deaf lithographer—may we call it commercial artist?—in the world.

Thus, I found Charley all bundled up in bed, surrounded by nurses at $7.50 a day and a weekly tip of $25.00.

"Lucky dog," said I. Charley laughed. Then his face became awry with pain. His leg was broken, with numerous other bruises, for it was no joke to meet

NORFOLK, VA.

The writer has not seen a column bearing this head for a decade, and asks the deaf of the State to send in any news of interest or items to this address: Nathan Schwartz, care of Ledger Dispatch, Composing Room, Norfolk, Virginia. It is intended to try to keep a regular column, if news will permit.

Mr. Edward C. Campbell and his wife, both hailing from Akron, where they were last, are now living on "A" Street, Portsmouth. Mr. Campbell is trying to locate a suitable place for his business here.

The deaf mutes' Sunday class, that holds its meetings every Sunday afternoon at Freeman Street Baptist Church, is progressing greatly and has recently elected Mr. E. C. Campbell as its leader. Mr. Campbell's former experience helps us a lot. His services are good and largely attended.

Mr. Chas. W. Knotts, of Tarboro, N. C., was a visitor recently, and dropped in at the Sunday School meeting. Mr. Knotts was the organizer and its first leader. Charles wanted to beat old man H. C. L., and bought himself a complete clothing outfit here, before going back home.

Mr. John Z. Brown and his wife stopped over in Norfolk, on their honeymoon trip North, last month. They stopped over in Baltimore, coming back they went via Richmond, and attended the Fair there. Her name was Miss Mary P. Batchelor. Best wishes to the newlyweds from the deaf of Norfolk. They are now settled down on the farm of her Granddaddy in Wilson, North Carolina.

Mr. William Spivey left us recently and is now located somewhere in North Carolina.

Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Liggan, of Richmond, Virginia, are now located here. Raymond has a position with a large printing firm, and intends to settle down here.

Miss Albee Fleming is still in our midst, and holds down a nice position for a firm in the downtown business district.

Mr. Nathan Schwartz and his wife are now living in the "Ghent," Norfolk, and are getting along nicely. Nathan recently completed one year's service on the Ledger-Dispatch, and is soon to be rewarded with a nice bonus, and Christmas coming soon too. He may be in need of it, probably she may need a new Easter Hat soon.

With the Christmas holidays coming, the deaf of Norfolk are expecting many new faces at the Sunday School services, and so wish to remind those who stop over in Norfolk to be present. The services start at 3 P. M. sharp.

Mr. Arthur G. Tucker, of Richmond, was in charge of the services here last Sunday, and in the evening, Rev. O. J. Whildin, of Baltimore, held a service at St. Luke's Church.

Mr. Ben E. Yaffey, who is at present attending Gallaudet College, is expected home for Christmas, and may bring some of nice stories down too. Ben would make a nice companion to Charles Chaplin.

Mr. Frank Smith, of Baltimore, dropped in on a visit to his parents. Conditions being so bad in Baltimore, he is contemplating staying here.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Crockett are at present locating here and wish to bear from their friends. "Willie" is a regular guy on the Virginian Pilot, and is assistant to the chief Ad-man.

GALLAUDET HOME.

All enjoyed their Thanksgiving dinner here. Instead of turkey, they had chicken. Everywhere up in this part of the State turkey was selling at seventy-five or eighty cents a pound, and so the home did not care to purchase any when the price was so alarmingly high, and there were plenty of chickens at had on the farmstead. It snowed gently and softly all the morning on Thanksgiving Day, and as the winds were lulled, the feathery little flakes settled on the landscape and made things look like a Christmas Day. A few days before Thanksgiving Day, Mr. I. N. Soper went up to Poughkeepsie, and bought a pair of W. L. Douglas, three-dollar shoes. He is congratulating himself over the fact that he paid only five dollars for the shoes. At some stores such shoes cost eight or more dollars a pair. Early in November, the matron, Mrs. K. M. Jones, went to the Adirondack Mountains, whither she goes every year for a couple of weeks off. During her stay there most of the days were stormy, and so her vacation was not as pleasant as she had hoped it would be.

Rev. John H. Kent came up here to preach on the 14th of November. He was accompanied by his little daughter, Doris, who is five years of age, and unusually bright for her age. She felt at home here, and spent much of her time at playing games with the old time ladies, who were very fond of her. Mr. C. Q. Mann is here today, Sunday, November 28th, to deliver a service. Mrs. Anne McConnell, who lives up in Poughkeepsie with her two daughters and two boys is here, to procure spiritual consolation. She has been here nearly every Sunday since last June. She enjoys the company of the inmates.

Because the house dog Laddie taps me on my leg or foot when he wants me to give him my attention, and play with him, I am of the firm conviction that dogs like other animals, reason.

Miss Amy Smith, the sister of Miss Lauretta Smith, who left here on the first of July last, and who was married to Mr. A. Smith, and is living in Poughkeepsie, got Amy to take her place as a waitress here. Amy is only fifteen years old and is as bright as a dollar. She had to give up her schooling this autumn on account of defective sight.

During the past several months the deaf and dumb and blind man, Mr. James H. Caton, has made an occasional visit to Highland, which is a small place across the Hudson from Poughkeepsie, with Mr. I. N. Soper.

Highland is the place where Mr. Caton was born and bred, and whenever he goes there his soul is filled with many a pleasant memory of the past. His father, who is now eighty-five, is still a hale and hearty old man, and may live to be centenarian.

Mr. Caton bears the distinction of being the first blind deaf-mute to learn how to operate and use a Remington typewriter at old Fanwood.

The matron's and inmates' dining rooms, the ladies' and men's sitting rooms and one or two more rooms were painted early in September and now they look fine. They had not been painted for some years. All the other rooms need painting, but owing to the high cost of labor and material, it may be a long time before they will see a paint brush.

Four months ago the Church Mission to Deaf-Mutes gave this Home an automobile, which maybe used as a delivery and passenger car, but Mr. Bergen, the janitor, has not yet learned how to drive it.

How the American School for the Deaf's New Home will appear when completed.

but work on them has not yet begun.

By the officers of the institution it was said that the usual difficulty of getting material has been experienced, and that the work has been greatly hampered. Tile for structural purposes that was ready for shipment last June was received last week. The work was started in the early spring of 1919.

Six years ago the officers of the institution began to consider the question of more suitable quarters. The school's buildings were old and not fireproof, and the management was much worried. With the number of defective children, who could not hear, the problem of how to get them out of the buildings safely in the event of a bad fire was serious. The School for the Deaf is the oldest one in the country, it having celebrated its centennial in 1917.

FARMING SITE NECESSARY.

It was considered expedient to have a site large enough for farming, so that the boy pupils could be taught agriculture, a vocation which, as deaf-mutes, they were most fitted to follow. Yet, because of the name, the American School at Hartford, it was felt necessary to be near the city. The principal problem for the management was to sell its plant on Asylum Avenue, move out, buy another, acquire the money with which to do this, and keep the school going. The Hartford Fire Ins. Co.'s offer of $250,000, with two years in which to remain in the old property until the school could erect its new plant, was readily accepted, as all the troublesome points in connection with the move were covered.

When the school was started in 1817, federal aid was given it. As soon as the Hartford Fire Ins. Co.'s offer was accepted, it became incumbent upon the school to move. To provide the necessary accommodations for the present pupils, and to provide for future growth, the State appropriated $250,000. With $500,000 at command, plans were drawn that could have been rigidly followed at the time they were executed. The building committee felt that the new building should be substantial, durable and reasonably attractive, and it was so planned. With only two years to occupy its old plant, it became incumbent upon the school to begin its new building, although it was well appreciated that the time was inauspicious for building. Because of rising expenses in connection with building a modification of plans was made necessary.

PUPILS MOSTLY FROM CONNECTICUT.

The school has always taken pupils from New England, having had them from Massachusetts, New to allow for future growth, should the quota of Connecticut's deaf children increase. In a general way the interior of the new administrative building recalls that of the first structure, and it is hoped that some of the old fireplaces may be installed in the new building. As soon as the school's new plant is occupied the necessity for a gymnasium will be imperative.

CORSON, COMMITTEE CHAIRMAN.

W. R. C. Corson is chairman of the building committee. Serving with him are A. A. Welch, Charles L. Taylor, Robert B. Newell, J. H. Buck and Henry A. Perkins, ex-officio, the latter being president of the schools.

Other officers of the school are Vice Presidents Atwood Collins and Archibald A. Welch; Secretary, R. B. Newell; Treasurer, Louis R. Cheney; Assistant Treasurer, Francis Parsons. Frank R. Wheeler is principal.

CHARLES Le CLERCQ

It was explained by President Perkins that as soon as the demolition of the old Asylum Avenue building was started by the Hartford Fire Ins. Co., the pupils and teachers were much crowded in the Garden Street dormitory. This year work is necessarily being done in space too cramped. When the new home is ready for occupancy next fall every one connected with the management will therefore be happy.—Hartford Courant.

CHARLEY Le CLERCQ is mending fast.

It was a close call, to be sure. An early hour in the Sunday morning, after a singfest all the evening in the Native Sons' Hall, Le Clercq was now on his way home, and he was two-thirds across the street, and right on the street car track without, the least idea that an automobile would come along on it in the wrong direction; but it was just in this bidden manner that an automobile was hurtling itself out of the darkness—coming like a wraith with a speed which kills or maims. No light-skeletoned and small-lunged Ford at that, but a ponderous juggernaut, the number or make of which could not be ascertained. Perhaps a revolver was at the wheel. His muddled brain, which had turned the car in the wrong direction, might have cleared for a moment, and struggling out of his dissolving consciousness, he might be full awake and imagine that he had heard or felt the compact of his automobile with some heavy object.

At any rate, in his uncertainty—who knows—his deviltry, he sped on, and Le Clercq was lying as one dead in a pool of blood on the street car track. The entrance of the landscape of his stove pipe, and his chin held up to ease the biting of the tall collar, while his arms spread like a wishbone moved to and fro with the cane grasped midway? No fool, this gay heart-breaker, for he was winning prizes in the athletic arena and was very sparing in dissipation. His fondness for outdoor exercise made him a distinguished disciple of that same Izaak Walton, who did more philosophizing than fishing, for the originated the saying that God could have made better fruit than strawberry, but had never done so. In the meantime, he mastered his trade so thoroughly that, though he has been only six months in San Francisco, he has already made a stir among the publishers of the city and is earning $700 a week.

A few days ago, an editorial appeared in the San Francisco Chronicle with this heading: "The Sierran Indian Summer—The Perfect Season in the California Mountains." It is half a column long, and we can quote only a part, this wise: "The other day we saw for the first time the term 'Indian Summer' used in advertising designed to call attention to the qualities of the autumn for a mountain outing. And, as well as we remember, this was the first advertising we have seen that had presented the peculiar attraction of the Sierra in the fall. We have often heard Sierra resort managers lament the fact that the public did not realize the autumnal glories of the mountains. Apparently this poster, which we saw, is a first attempt to turn the eye of the public toward the mountain Indian Summer. And in passing we feel impelled to say that a poster of so much pictorial beauty as this had deserved to have the effect intended. It presented in full color a mountain lake, with such fidelity that, though the picture was unnamed, the term was instantly recognized by every one, who had seen the Bull-Frog Lake on the Kearsage Pass, as that exquisite gem of the mountains. The recognition by these advertisers of the fact that the beauties of the Sierra are so great that they speak for themselves better than any imaginative or idealized picture is worth complimenting. We have had enough of the other kind."

Note the praise in the words: "A poster of so much pictorial beauty," "It painted in full color with such fidelity," "worth complimenting," etc. What greater laudation can a critic give to a work of art like that picture, when he does not know the name of the artist? The wizard of this lithographic coloring happens to be Charley Le Clercq himself. No wonder the lithographers of the city are sitting up and taking notice, an automobile broadside with one side of the body and then hit the surface of the street with the other.

I was introduced to Mrs. Le Clercq, a gentlewoman who was especially solicitous that I write to the DEAF-MUTES' JOURNAL and tell the New York friends that Charley is doing well and will be out of the hospital soon, though it will be some time longer before he can return to his post on Fourth Street.

"How do you like California?" asked I, to put an end to an awkward interval.

"No," answered she, shaking her head. But I have ordered three of our ten packed cases in New York to be shipped here."

"Yes," agreed Charley, "three and no more," and then he looked as wise as the wrapped condition of his head allowed.

We chatted of Broadway, of the League of Elect Surds, of the boys, and of California in general, which new home helike. I quoted the California News story about Adam and Eve getting sick of ennui in the Garden of Eden, and California being recommended for a change—which was not much change."

Charley laughed heartily. Then his face twitched with pain again. Thinking the confab long enough, I took leave of everybody, especially of a pretty nurse named Neva, and said to Davidson, "Let us dine."

Outside the sky was dim. But our hearts were light with the knowledge that Charley is on the road to recovery, we hope, with greater opportunities in the future to bring fame to himself. In the meantime, detectives are at work to find out whose automobiles were abroad at the midnight hour of the Sunday morning, and by a process of elimination, put their hand on the fellow who had not only driven on the wrong side of the street, but also running heartlessly away without stopping to ascertain if anybody was hurt.

A new aspirant for public favor has made its appearance under the resuscitated title "The Silent World."

The first issue is dated January, 1921, and is the forerunner of eleven more numbers which will mark the succeeding months of what we all hope will be a year of peace and prosperity for all true Americans.

The literary range of the initial number is quite broad, diversified, and ambitious, but we fear it is too ponderous in treatment and tone to attract and hold the interest of the ordinary reader.

The frontispiece is embellished by a fine half-tone portrait of the late Dr. Isaac Lewis Peet, and otherwise is neat in design and print. The size is something similar to the Silent Worker previous to the change in page dimensions recently adopted.

The subscription price of this new monthly is fixed at $2.50 a year, or single numbers at 25 cents. Address: "The Silent World, 1950 Washington Avenue, Bronx, New York.

SEVERAL columns of interesting news matter and pertinent comment are crowded out of this issue, but will appear next week. During the coming holiday season, please be as brief as possible, in order that correspondence may receive prompt publication and a wider field be covered.

GALLAUDET COLLEGE.

The Saturday Night Dramatic Club treated a large audience to a fine program, on Saturday evening, December 4th.

The first play was entitled "The Doctor in Spite of Himself," the second "Nero and Seneca."

The cast for "The Doctor in Spite of Himself" was recruited from those members of the Club, who had not previously been given the opportunity to display their talent on the stage. But this did not prevent it from being satisfactorily rendered. The word "Comedy" covers a multitude of stage sins. This was so in the present instance. The acting was saved by the story, and the story was saved by the acting.

Alex. Rosen, '21, as Sgnarelle, a wood cutter, was forced to assume the role of doctor by two servants of Geronte, a gentleman. These servants had been fed upon the rumor that the wood cutter was a doctor in disguise. They searched him out and insisted that it was he who had effected marvelous cures on certain patients. Sgnarelle denies that he is a doctor. The servants insist that he is. Finding that denying is futile, the wood cutter gives up and lets them take him for a doctor. The servants bring him to Geronte, a well-to-do gentleman, who explains to Sgnarelle that his daughter is afflicted with a peculiar sickness, which has taken away her power of speech. As she is to be married soon, he is very anxious for her recovery. A series of comical operations and remarks follow between Geronte and Sgnarelle.

Leandre, in love with Geronte's daughter, Lucy, had been waiting for an opportunity to get at Sgnarelle alone, and at last he is successful. Leandre tells Sgnarelle that Lucy's illness is merely a ruse. She had affected it simply to prevent her marriage to the man her father had forced upon her. Sgnarelle is bribed into taking Leandre, now disguised, along with him to see the patient. Leandre is presented as an assistant. The two lovers manage to escape. Sgnarelle is seized, but Leandre and Lucy appear on the scene and explain in time to prevent Sgnarelle from being arrested.

Alex. Rosen, as Sgnarelle, starred. The rest of the cast divided honors about equally.

The real feature of the evening, however, proved to be the farce, "Nero and Seneca." It was a burlesque, upon Nero and his court, and dealt with them in a mock heroic vein.

The first act showed Nero sitting in state, lyre in hand, invoking the Muse and praises at the same time. Seneca, gray-bearded, sitting beneath on one side, is ministering to Nero's jaded appetite for pleasure by suggesting different kinds. A dancer is called in, but she is dismissed. Another, Pyrrha, is called in. This time Seneca turns tipsy, and despite the fact that he is borne down by years, goes after her but fails in his mission. Nero's ire is roused and he condemns Seneca to prison.

In the dungeon to which Seneca is consigned, are enacted several mirth-provoking incidents. First there is a ghost, then a dancing skeleton. Finally a tiger of Nero's enters. Seneca however succeeded in appeasing the tiger and escapes.

In the third act, Seneca overthrows Nero and ascends the throne.

The play was an original farce by Jacob Cohen, '23, and Ladislav Cherry, '23. As a farce they were not obliged to observe strict historical accuracy. Both of them played in leading roles. Cohen enacted the part of Seneca, Cherry that of Nero.

Friday evening, December 3d, the Literary Society presented the following program:

ESSAY—"The Dangers of Classicism," Mr. Werner, '22.
DEBATE—"Resolved, That Immigration to the United States should be Restricted," AFFIRMATIVE—Mr. Jones, '24, Mr. Falk, P. C. NEGATIVE—Mr. Neisul, '24, Mr. Turok, P. C.
DIALOGUE—"Just Pat and I," Messrs. Baynes, '23 and Seipp, '24
DECLAMATION—"Ballad of the Yule Log," Mr. Stephens, '24.
CRITIC'S Report, Mr. Matthew, '21.

Mr. Werner spoke on the dangers of class war and the difficulty of adjusting and settling disputes between various classes of people. The affirmative side won the debate.

The basketball team is now being whipped into shape, under the coaching of Mr. William Cooper, '08. Several veteran players remain. Of these, we have Bouchard (Capt.), LaFontaine, Baynes and Seipp.

CHICAGO.

Several complaints have been reported to me, because I do not send news to the JOURNAL often. I am sorry, but it is because I often work from 6 A.M. until 8 or 8:30 P.M., and sometimes until 9 P.M. For a year I have been trying to ask some one to take my place as a regular correspondent. Whoever can send news to the JOURNAL every week, had better make arrangements with the editor, whereby he will receive some compensation. I have sacrificed my time and money for many years, just to please the dissatisfied readers. It is lucky enough for me to write news tonight, because I am sick with a heavy cold and do not go out yet.

I overlooked two facts in my last letter. One that when Mrs. Andrews attended the surprise birthday party at Miss Jacoba's home, she announced to the guests gleefully the birthday of their old friend, Mrs. Morton Sonnborn, which occurred on the same day, and acting upon the suggestion of Mrs. Gibney to send their congratulations by telegraph, a collection was quickly made for the telegram. It was done. There was a balance of the money left, but Mrs. Andrews took it home by request to buy flowers for Mrs. Sonnborn's husband, who has been ill for a long time. He has the sympathy and best wishes of all who know him.

The other fact is that the motion of the lip was filmed at the Parish Hall three weeks ago, in order to see who could understand what was spoken. Only two expert oralists could answer correctly? The man who invented it imagined that according to the repeated declarations of the advocates of oralism, any oralist could catch every word easily on the platform.

The sign language is still used sweetly until the world explodes. Mr. Struck who is to be president of the P. P. Club, January 1st, 1921, recited one of the famous poems called The Pit and the Pendulum, by Edgar Allan Poe, from beginning to end, without stopping a moment, at the P. P. Club, Saturday, November 27th. Dr. Dougherty the chairman congratulated him, telling the audience that he hoped the others would follow his successful example. A good lecturer usually talks from memory only. Mr. Craig will be the next lecturer in January—probably the 22d. We expected Prof. Berg, of Indianapolis, to come and give a talk, Saturday, but he wrote to Dr. Dougherty that his school would be resumed Friday and Saturday, so he gave up his trip.

F. L. Cleys went to Winnipeg two weeks ago on a visit. He said that it was very cold while traveling toward Far West, and he could not sleep at all in a berth, even with thick blankets and his overcoat on, in spite of the fact that the windows are protected by two extra ones, and that when he arrived at W. he saw many people skating on ice.

Mr. Cleys announced at the P. P. Club that the Winnipeg Association of the Deaf was organized only a year ago, and sixty out of eighty deaf-mutes living in the city have joined it, and that the members sent their cordial greetings and best wishes to the P. P. Club through his kindness. Mr. Cleys goes to Los Angeles with his mother this week, to enjoy sight-seeing until Spring.

A bazaar is to be held December 9th, 10th and 11th, at Sodality Hall, May and 11th Streets, for the benefit of the Ephphatha Social Center for the Catholic deaf of Chicago. Come and help swell the fund.

Mr. and Mrs. Des Rochers went to Manhattan, Illinois, and visited with Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Kessel on Sunday two weeks ago, and reported a splendid time.

Edward M. Rowe has gone to Boston, Mass., on a vacation of two weeks, to visit his dear mother. Entertainments, socials and lectures, seem to be going on all winter at the clubs and societies.

A novel social was given at the Parish House on Thursday evening, by Madames Brimble, Henry, Craig, and Miss Tanager.

Mrs. Watson will manage another entertainment Saturday, December 11th.

There was a big, lively, dance under the auspices of the Chicago Oral Club at the S. A. C., Saturday, November 20th.

The second son of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Ritchie was instantly killed by an automobile Tuesday, November 2d, and buried at Fairmount Cemetery, Friday. While crossing the street near his home, Sam dodged one auto instantly, but another suddenly came upon him in an opposite direction. The sad accident was clearly unavoidable, but the driver, who is a doctor, regretted the fatal occurrence greatly. He placed a beautiful floral offering on the poor boy's casket and generously paid all the funeral expenses. Many deaf-mutes have related their hair-breath escapes from death on the streets. "Safety first" should always be your motto.

Alva Finney's sister, of Missouri, and uncle and aunt, of Seattle, were guests of Alva and his wife for a week, and were piloted around to see many beautiful sights in Chicago. The visitors were delighted with their visits and returned home.

The Susan Wesley Circle, that had been dead for nearly two years, revived Thursday, October 28th. Seventeen members and friends partook of a nice luncheon at the residence of Mrs. James Gibney. They have decided to meet and resume sewing from time to time at their homes.

There were four merry howl-e'en parties—at the Parish House, the S. A. Club, the P. P. Club and at Miss Jacoba's home on Saturday evening, October 30th. Dance at L. A. C., e-r-d playing at the Parish House, various games at the other places.

The P. P. Club was beautifully festooned with colored bunting and overpowered with visitors, besides the members. One of the visitors from abroad said: "I have never seen such a pretty sight as that before." The Lady Committee knew how to entertain them. Mrs. Anna Harris acted as a fortune teller and made lots of money for the Club. Refreshments were served until midnight.

Mrs. R. L. Long gave a good talk on "The Man that Never Smiles," at the P. P. Club Saturday, October 23d.

The annual tag day was held Monday, October 18th, in the city. About 85,000 dollars were collected by the comeliest maids and matrons tagging pedestrians all day. The Chicago Daily Journal says: "Among the fifty-two charitable institutions represented in the league is the Ephphatha School for Deaf-Mutes at Crawford and Belmont Avenues. Here 122 mute children, representing thirteen nationalities and nearly as many creeds are receiving an education equivalent to the normal child."

Fred Stryker and Mrs. Rutherford were successfully operated for minor troubles in hospitals and are recovering at home. Miss Groves has been confined in a hospital for a long time. It is reported recently that she has been taken home. Her case has puzzled the best doctors and seems to be hopeless.

Mrs. H. S. Edington, of Washington, is visiting with her old friends here. She was accompanied to the Pass-Pas Club rooms by Mrs. P. Eller, Saturday night, to see Mr. Struck's lecture.

The Chicago Chapter of the Illinois State Association of the Deaf will hold its triennial meeting at the Parish House, on 6122 Indiana Ave., on Saturday evening, December 18th. Its members should be loyal and active, and try to induce as many others as possible to join the worthy Association. The Bazaar netted over $400 at the Parish House November 19th, 1920. Good luck! Great credit to Mrs. La Motte, chairman, and her able assistants, is due.

A Christmas tree will be held at the P. P. Club, December 25th.

There will be a Bounce Party at the same club, on Saturday eve, December 31st. Mrs. Struck has a delightful "New Idea" for Saturday evening, January 15th. It is a secret. No one can solve it until then! Come.

The Thanksgiving day has come and gone, but everybody had a real good dinner.

A lady wrote: "Always be bright and cheerful on Thanksgiving day, no matter what your troubles are, and you will have cause to rejoice three before the year is out."

Two turkey dinners were served at the Parish House and at the Pass-Pas Club at one dollar per plate. Thirty-five guests were at each place and enjoyed a quiet social all the afternoon and evening. It is said that seventeen more guests wanted to eat at the C. P. C. but were too late.

Mrs. Eva Redman Struck and her cheerful assistants, Mrs. Carlson, Misses Fulton and Scott, fed the guests until they were full to overflowing. Hearty congratulations.

Miss Jacoba gave a lovely howl-e'en party in honor of her blind cousin and her companion from Denver. The cousin is able to spell with her fingers well, although she can hear and talk. Twenty guests were present and feasted on Cora's appetizing luncheon. Among the various games, one is called a game of Nuts, or their names like this:

1. A girl's name.
2. A part of the ocean.
3. A letter of the Alphabet and something found in alleys.
4. A boy's name.
5. A vegetable.
6. A country in South America.
7. A part of a building.
8. A dairy product.
9. A color of a horse.
10. Something used as drink.

Can the readers solve the above? On Saturday evening, November 27th, President Pardon mounted the platform, after Mr. Struck's lecture was over, and sang a song of praise on those four ladies for cooking so fine a turkey dinner, on Thursday, and called them to the platform. The ladies blushed, but responded gracefully and received a large box of choice chocolates each.

The audience waved their handkerchiefs, chiefs,

How often have you said things hastily for which you are very sorry and ashamed afterwards? There are two or three certain persons, who constantly speak ill or others out of spite, but really hurt their own reputation. Such chronic back-biters should be banished to "No Man's Land," unless they change their hearts.

"A famous old proverb might be changed to speak in haste, repent at leisure and hold well."

FANWOOD.

Thanksgiving vacation began Wednesday morning and lasted until the morning of Monday. All pupils reported pleasant vacations.

The basket ball court of Knight Light of Trinity was crowded with people, to see Knight Light of Trinity Quintet and Fanwood Five battle for the supremacy on the evening of Thanksgiving day.

The Tennyson Silents (former Fanwoodites) who administered a good-sized defeat last year—27 to 19—on that night, with selected players, expected to repeat their performance of last year. However their opponents had rounded into form and sent us back home beaten, 21 to 19.

The first half started with the tossing of the ball. Our boys seemed to be ill at ease, because their opponents exhibited easy team work and piled up 16 points, while our boys got only 6 points. The hustlers and Fanwood fans were down-hearted.

In the second half the hustlers and fans arose with wild yells, as our boys showed their clever and speedy work, adding the score up to 19, while our opponents got 16 points. Owing to a moment of carelessness, the opponents added 3 points. Our boys made double team work, but the challenge team's guards put up a very strong defense.

The players of the K. L. T. team are big, husky and speedy fellows, and somewhat rough too.

The line-up and score are as follows:

FANWOOD (19)	K. L. T. (21)
Cassinelli	L. F. Wilkins
Lux	R. F. Bonning
Malloy	C. Meyers
Mulfield	L. G. Anderson
	R. G. Schaeffe

Field goals: "Fanwood"—Cassinelli 2, Whalen 2, Lux 3, Field goals, Malloy 1, Mulfield 2. Field goals: "K. L. T."—Wilkins 2, Bonning 2, Meyers 3, Anderson 1. Field goals—Bonning 4, Wilkins 1. Referee, Stewart; Uhl, Scorer, Cadet Corcoran; R. McCarthy and R. F. Long; Time-keeper, Cadet Captain C. Moscovitch.

Capt. Whalen's left hand was injured, but he did clever play.

E. Malloy and L. Cassinelli were fearless guards, and did their utmost. F. Lux was somewhat a star in all-around style, and did much for his boys. E. Mulfield made many misses at foul goals, but he made it up pretty well.

Approximately 400 people attended.

After the game, we were invited to the Thanksgiving social and dance.

The pastor complimented our boys performance and asked us to call up again.

Probably there will be another game in the latter part of January.

Cadet H. Yager and his friend were invited to witness the six day bicycle race, which was held at the 22d Regiment Armory last week. They enjoyed it immensely.

The scribe and one of the pupils of Hebrew Orphan Association, of which the scribe's brother is superintendent, were invited to Madison Square Garden, to see the Atlantic Fleet Championships—Boxing and Wrestling, Wednesday night. Before they left for the show, the scribe and the captain of the basketball team had a chat, and the captain wanted the scribe to choose some feather-weight players, to play a game with them, at the H. O. A. court, at 138th Street and Amsterdam Avenue, during the Christmas vacation.

Mr. Henry M. Lechtreck, inspector from the State Board of Charities, visited every department of the Institution on Monday and Tuesday of last week.

Miss Whiddin, of the Normal Class, Gallaudet College, accompanied by Mr. John Cloud, formerly a teacher here, visited the School on November 29th.

Mrs. Robert Nichol and Mrs. Moses Hopkins of the Ladies' Committee, visited the Institution two weeks ago.

Immediately after the conclusion of the meeting of the Board of Directors last Wednesday afternoon, Principal Gardner made a flying trip to Albany, to attend a conference of Principals and State officials regarding matters pertaining to the Institutions of the Deaf of New York State.

Major Francis G. Landon and Mrs. Landon visited the school on December 6th, and were shown through the Industrial Department and the Household. Major Landon recently presented the Institution with a handsome silk flag.

DETROIT.

At the business meeting of the Detroit Association of the Deaf Friday evening, on November 19th, it was passed that they form two new clubs—Funeral Benefit Fund and the Literary Circle. They also will be put up to the Ladies' Auxiliary, of the Detroit Association of the Deaf, at its meeting December 8th. Lady members are urgently requested to attend the meeting. Come and join the Detroit Association of the Deaf and Ladies' Auxiliary, D. A. D. They need more members, and their co-operation and aid are now required. Thank you.

The Detroit Association of the Deaf held an opening social at its new club rooms, 951 Porter Street, Saturday evening, November 20th. Over a hundred were present and enjoyed the "house warming" and were merry all evening. The committee spared no pains to make the affair one to be remembered. Several hearing people were present to swell the social. Among them were Mr. and Mrs. Davis, daughter, of Superintendent Dudley, of Mississippi School for the Deaf. For the benefit of the dancing folks, the Automatic Player Piano, the future property of the Association was kept going in a "glorious" manner. Hot coffee and sandwiches were served under the direction of Max Crittenden. That evening the nomination for officers for both D. A. D. and Ladies' Auxiliary was made for the ensuing year. The new D. A. D. officers will be elected on the first Sunday of December, and the new officers of the Auxiliary on the evening of December 8th.

Mr. Stork brought a baby-boy, seven pounds and half, to Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Douglas (Miss Larene Fisher, of Detroit), November 12th. Happy congratulations.

Ivan Heymanson returned home to Detroit from a week's visit with his parents in New York City Monday, November 22d. He also visited several deaf societies and praised them for their courtesy. He believes New York City will be selected for that city has the largest deaf population than any of the States in the Union. He tells of the Williamsburg Bridge approach, a combined cantilever and suspension bridge crossing East River from Delancy St., New York City, to Broadway in Brooklyn. Total length 7200 feet; width, 118 feet; height, 135 feet clear. He also visited "The Cathedral of Commerce," the Woolworth Building, and climbed the "Above the Clouds Observation Gallery," and had a birdseye view of New York City. It is the tallest and most beautiful office building in the world. (Height 792 feet, 1 inch—55 stories.)

The business in Detroit at this writing is slack. A good many deaf have been laid off. It is a warning to the deaf elsewhere to stay away and stick to their old jobs. It is likely the conditions will be normal after New Year's.

MEET THIS FAMILY.

The father of success is Work;
The mother of success is Ambition;
The oldest son is Common Sense;
Some of the other boys are Perseverance, Honesty, Thoroughness, Foresight, Enthusiasm and Co-operation.
The oldest daughter is Character.
Some of her sisters are Cheerfulness, Loyalty, Courtesy, Care, Economy, Sincerity and Harmony.
The best of all Opportunity.
Get well acquainted with the "old man" and you will be able to get along pretty well with all the rest of the family.—K. B. Printer.

Mrs. Kate Ball, aged mother of Mrs. Casimir Sadofsky and Edward Ball, died Sunday P.M., November 14th, after an illness of three months at Pontiac, Mich. We extend our sincere condolences to Mr. and Mrs. Ball and the immediate family.

The members of the Detroit Local Committee, N. A. D., were complimented by Mr. Alex. Pach, the "Live Wire" photographer of the deaf, with the group photographs of the Local Committee that were taken during the Detroit Convention. They wish, through this column, to thank him for the pictures. They regretted that several other members of the Local Committee were not present during the sitting.

R. V. Jones requested that some party, who took his new felt hat by mistake, on the night of the meeting of the D. A. D., November 19th, please return same and no questions will be asked.

The writer wishes to correct that the christened name of the child of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Schnabelin should be "Hilma Ella," not Thelma Ella as reported in last issue.

Mr. All Glauberman, who came here from New York last fall, has located a French Tailoring Co., at 31st Street and Michigan Avenue. Also cleaning, pressing, repairing.

Mr. John Crough, of Windsor, Canada, has sold his semi-bungalow.

Mrs. Fred J. Bourcier and baby, Margaret E., went to Washington, Mich., some time ago, and left the baby with her grandparents for the winter. Mrs. Bourcier is a new member of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Detroit Association of the Deaf. Forrest Peard has left for his home in Eureka, Illinois, Saturday November 20th, and his room mate, Furman, has gone on his vacation.

Mrs. Walker, eldest sister of Mrs. Gillespie, has gone to Iowa to reside. In honor of Miss Pansy Sourkes of Montreal, Canada, a farewell party was given at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. John Ulrich Wednesday evening, November 24th. Miss Sourkes has been here with the Ulrichs since the Detroit Convention, and she left for home Thanksgiving Day.

The Detroit Free Press of November 22d, has the following article:

Miss Katherine Steffen, of 1418 Pennsylvania Avenue, was born deaf. Yet she can carry on a conversation over the telephone as readily as anyone.

She "hears" through the acute sensitiveness of her fingers. To a marvelous degree she possesses the capacity of receiving impressions by the sense of touch.

Miss Steffen can talk. She places a finger on the sensitized metal plate in the base of the telephone receiver to "hear."

I owe it all to Miss Lucy Dumont, my teacher in the Detroit School for the Deaf," she said Friday. "Deaf people as a rule study the art of dactylology—the method of communicating ideas by signs made with the fingers. I was taught lip-reading."

"I discovered that pressure exerted on the skin is mentally perceptible. By this sort of 'muscle sensation' I found I was able to use the telephone."

"And then I took up dancing. I stand before an orchestra and am unconscious of a single tone. I place my hand on a violin or the piano and instantly 'hear' the same rhythm melody one who hears with his ears does. Then I carry the air in my mind and dance."

"Why, do you know, I dance so well now, that last week I won a prize for being the best dancer at a ball. Isn't that fine for a girl who is stone deaf?"

"I used to grieve a great deal at my handicap. But now I have overcome the obstacle."

"Miss Helen Daly, also a teacher in the Detroit School for the Deaf, taught me to dance."

"I am employed as assistant manager in a restaurant. I have occasion to use the telephone every few minutes. People are amazed when I tell them I can't hear a sound. But it's true, nevertheless. No one who is deaf should be depressed. Faith and hard work can overcome anything. That's what my teacher always taught me, and it's true."

MRS. C. C. C.

A Word to New York.

The Rapport Club, also known as the "Only Twelve," got down to real business the other night to take final action on the affair of a basketball game between New York's best team and the Good-year Silents of Akron, which was intended to be held on March 19, 1921.

The meeting resulted in the calling off the affair. We are sorry to be compelled to take such action, for we know it will disappoint a large number of New Yorkers, especially the basketball fans, who have been waiting to see the big Akron team in action, and those society guys who have been waiting for the dance, so they could spin around with some young lady in their arms. Too bad. The blame cannot be placed on the shoulders of Mr. H. A. Gillen, who was acting for the Rapport Club, nor can Mr. R. Moore or Mr. A. W. Martin be blamed, who were acting for the Akron team.

All terms were agreed upon and everything running wise and smoothly for both sides up till the time when contracts were to be signed. We were even ready to make them out when all of a sudden the Goodyear Rubber Co. laid off a good many men, which scattered Mr. Moore's team North, East, South, and West, and left him at loss what to do

V. B. G. A. A.

On Wednesday evening, November 24th (Thanksgiving Eve), the V. B. G. A. A. gave a Masquerade Subscription Dance, to a few invited gentlemen guests, which was held at St. Ann's Parish House. The Patronesses of the evening were Miss Virginia B. Gallaudet, Mrs. J. H. Kent and Miss Jane Hall Meier, who received the guests. We regretted the fact that Miss Meier could not be present, due to a previous engagement.

At about 9:30 P.M. all masqueraders lined up in two and the Grand March was begun, led by the committee in charge. There was an endless amount of fun and laughter by all. Dancing was followed according to the program, which was arranged tastefully. A handsome Victrola furnished the "necessary" music. The Parish House was decorated generously with Oak Leaves and chrysanthemums, and combined with the various hues and colors of the masqueraders' costumes, it was indeed a beautiful sight to behold. The always genial Mr. Pach was on hand to take two flashlight photos of all. Ice-cream, cake and chocolates were served during the intermission of the first part of the dance. Miss Gallaudet and Mrs. Kent were most kind and amiable, and joined in our merriment with as much zest as any of us young folks. The success of the affair was in a large measure due to their untiring efforts to please every one, and judging from the looks of all, it may be safely said that we had a most enjoyable time. It was in the wee sma' hour of 1 A.M. (Thanksgiving morn) that found us weeding homeward happily, thankful that a pleasant wholesome time could be had with pleasant wholesome friends. The committee in charge of the dance were Misses Eleanor E. Sherman, Kathleen McGuire, and Wanda Makowska.

The masqueraders and their various costumes were:—

Messrs:—
Frank Lux Widow
Dixon Chink
Funk Checkers
Bibber Sultan (Ali Ben Adhem)
Garrison Scrape

H. A. D. NOTES

The Grand Bazaar, under the auspices of the Ladies' Committee, held on December 1st to 5th, was a great triumph in every way. All our fondest anticipations have been far exceeded. To all who in the least manner contributed toward its success, we say: "Thank you!"

So many articles are still on hand that, owing to the lateness of the hour while these words are being penned, the committee has decided to hold a special Auction Sale on Saturday evening, December 18th, in order to dispose of them. Come and get some genuine bargains.

A more detailed report of the Bazaar will be given in next issue of the JOURNAL.

Mr. Max M. Lubin spoke on the Jewish Festival of Hanukkah last Friday evening, December 3d.

This Friday, the 10th, commemorating the birthday of Dr. Thos. H. Gallaudet, Mr. E. Souweine will lecture on Dr. Gallaudet's life, while Mrs. E. Souweine will render a hymn for this special occasion.

A Business Meeting of H. A. D. takes place this Sunday afternoon, December 12th. Members only. In the evening, there will be a Motion Picture Exhibition of high class films, from Fox Paramount Magazine and Famous Players Lasky Corporation.

A nice little surprise was tendered to Miss Lucille Ledi, last Sunday, by her most intimate friends. It was in the form of a "Miscellaneous Shower," and the gifts she received were too beautiful and too numerous to mention. Laughter and merriment reigned supreme. Various games were played and not forgetting the delicious "eats" that were so daintily prepared by the charming hostess, her mother.

The time is drawing nigh that she is to become the bride of Mr. Israel Solomon, and as she is about to embark upon the sea of matrimony, we all wish her "lots and lots" of happiness, and may nothing but good luck shine upon the dainty little bride and her wors-

OHIO.

(News items for this column may be sent to our Ohio News Bureau, care of Mr. A. B. Greiner, 903 Franklin Ave., Columbus, O.)

December 4, 1920.—With outgoing of the pupils' letters Wednesday, went notification to their parents and friends that the Christmas vacation of this school would begin December 17th. They were asked to designate the route the child is to go over, and to send to the child's teacher, not later than December 10th, the necessary money for railway fare. The vacation will extend to January 3d, 1921.

The past week a large amount of coal was stored in the boys' courtyard for use in the kitchen and bakery, taking the place of Natural Gas, which the institution has been using for some years. The change is made because, by order of the Gas Company, which claims the product is giving out, all public utilities will be denied its use, especially in severe cold weather, in order that private consumers may be supplied. The company is demanding a higher price than it is getting now—thirty-five cents per 1000 cubic feet. From sixty-five to seventy-five cents is demanded, and the city council has been fighting the scheme for some weeks, claiming that the supply is still abundant, that pipes have been plugged to cause a deficiency and scare the public in to paying more rather than to be denied its use. A few years ago, the company urged and urged the people to use its product, claiming there was sufficient to last for years to come. Hence public service companies and private homes changed their fuel and heating apparatuses at great expense to secure the advantages natural gas affords, and now they are told the gas is giving out, and will be exhausted in a few years, unless there is less waste in its use, and one reason given for the latter point is to raise the price. It is claimed by some that the company is merely after a higher profit of the profiteer variety. Unless council and the company come to some agreement soon, when a real cold snap sets in private homes, depending entirely upon gas for heating, lighting and cooking, will have to suffer, as was the case at times last winter—no warmth, no cooking, no lights except candles for the latter, which the writer several times had to use.

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Miller on their honeymoon return stopped over a few hours at the school, Wednesday, and received more congratulations and well wishes from friends. They will be at home to their friends after December 15th, in Power Plus Apts, Springfield, Ohio.

Otto Seidesks, one of the many thrown out of work in the Akron rubber factories, has secured a place in the school kitchen here, and last Friday Milton Richardson, another of the unfortunate ones, began as linotype setter in The Chronicle office. Fortunate he came, for the regular foreman was absent on account of sickness, so he helped to get out this week's issue of The Chronicle.

The Ladies' Aid Society, at its meeting, Thursday evening, chose the following officers to serve next year. Mrs. Wm. H. Zorn, President; Mrs. George Clum, Vice-President; Mrs. Clara Leib, Recording Secretary; Mrs. Anna B. Callison, Custodian. The usual Christmas treat for the residents of the Home was allowed. Members, however, will also give individual gifts to each.

The teachers at their monthly meeting, Wednesday afternoon, enjoyed first-hand information concerning present-day conditions in Russia, by one who saw with his own eyes how matters are there, and who but recently returned to this city from there, where he was in the service of the Red Cross at the conclusion of the armistice and during the war, spoke here once—Major Sniveley. Regarding his address, The Chronicle says:—

We have every confidence that Dr. Sniveley told the absolute truth as he saw it. He thinks Bolshevism is cruel in the extreme and absolutely heartless. Hundreds and thousands of fine people in Russia have been murdered simply because they were well educated and therefore under suspicion as being opposed to Bolshevism.

Bolshevism appears to feed upon the ignorance and fear of the people. He thinks that not more than one out of twenty of the Russians are really in favor of Bolshevism, and these are found in the cities. They got control of the armament, munitions, war equipment of all kinds, and the food supplies. With these they terrorize the rest of the country and force them to submission. The country people are densely ignorant and do not take any interest, although at heart they would prefer the return of the czar, even though the czar were a devil.

The cold, hunger, starvation, nakedness, dirt, filth, lice and sickness in that country, is beyond imagination. It cannot be told and must be seen to be believed.

Bolshevism has destroyed the church, religion, and the home.

William H. Lipsett gave "current events" before the Clero Literary Association on Thursday evening, December 2d.

Rev. H. C. Merrill, of Utica, N. Y., is expected in town this week.

Package Party of Philadelphia Division No. 30, N. F. S. D., at 1626 Arch Street, next Saturday evening, December 11th.

The annual election of Managers of All Souls' Guild and reorganization of the Board of Managers will be held on Tuesday evening, December 14th.

It now proposes to abolish money, on January 1st, which will make the people more subservient to their rule than they have been, because every bite they eat they must beg from their masters, and every article of clothing they wear must be given to them by the Bolshevik authorities.

When we contemplate this awful condition in comparison with our own country, where the people are well fed, clothed, and warmed, we ought to be very thankful. At the same time we should feel a deep sense of pity for the unfortunate people of Russia, once a great and powerful country.

Mrs. Nora Patterson has sufficiently recovered from her Auto injuries to be out of the hospital. Last week she was taken by her brother to Cleveland to stay with him for a while. A. B. G.

PHILADELPHIA.

Mrs. Anna Funk, formerly, Mrs. Anna Higgins, of Philadelphia, wishes to inform Mr. Peter J. Kierman, of New York, that her address is 2953 N. Mutt Street, Philadelphia, and she will be glad to hear from him at any time. Her son Joseph has recovered from his illness and is now home in the best of his health.

The annual election of officers of Philadelphia Division No. 30, N. F. S. D., were held at its last meeting, December 3d, and resulted as follows: President, John A. Roach; Vice President, Harry E. Stevens; Secretary, James F. Brady; Treasurer, Frank J. Kuhn; Director, Joseph V. Donohue; Sergeant-at-Arms, James L. Jennings; and Trustee, James H. Richards. For delegate to the next triennial convention of the National Fraternal Society of the Deaf, James F. Brady had a walkover, being the sole candidate, and John A. Roach was elected alternate delegate. All the above officials were elected on the first ballot, except the Vice President, who was elected on the second ballot. On the whole, it was a very quiet affair, enabling the Division to adjourn at about ten o'clock.

News reached us that Mrs. Bird Heistand, of York, Pa., passed away on Thanksgiving Day night. She had been in ill health for a while and was probably between 45 and 50 years of age. She was the widow of the late Bird Heistand, who was shockingly killed while crossing the railroad near his work one evening, on his way home, about two years ago. Three grown-up children, a son and two daughters, survive her. The son is married, we understand.

The reception of the Philadelphia Knights of De l'Epee in honor of the 29th birthday anniversary of celebrated Michel Charles De l'Epee on Thanksgiving Eve, passed off very pleasantly and enjoyably, although there were only forty-four around the festive board, including ladies. The principal addresses were made by Messrs. John A. Nowacki, Joseph V. Donohue and Elmer E. Scott.

In passing, we may state the fact that the above event was not more largely attended was, in our opinion, chiefly due to being content to make it an organization affair instead of a combined celebration in a public place. Every grateful deaf person, regardless of creed, cherishes the memory of the good Abbe who did so much to provide a language of signs for the deaf people of his time, which language has been handed down to us, modified, improved and enlarged, and which, as Dr. Crouter once remarked at a dinner of the Gallaudet Club, will never be completely done away with as long as there are any number of deaf people on this earth.

Mrs. Harry E. Stevens has gone to Carlisle, Pa., her home town, to attend with her sister the Cumberland County Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution. She will remain away a couple of weeks.

We extend sincere sympathy to Mr. Fred Greiner, who lost his mother by death recently.

We saw a fine photograph of the tontorial shop of the Y. M. C. A. of Portland, Oregon, in which James B. George, a former Philadelphian, is employed. Mr. George sent the picture to his intimate friend, Mr. Houston.

Levi Cooper has moved with his family to Schenckville, above Norristown, and will try his hand at poultry raising.

John Dunner, one of our tallest deaf-mutes, returned from Akron, Ohio, on Saturday, November 27th. Like many other deaf-mutes, he was laid off by the Goodyear Company after having worked for a year or so.

William H. Lipsett gave "current events" before the Clero Literary Association on Thursday evening, December 2d.

Rev. H. C. Merrill, of Utica, N. Y., is expected in town this week.

Package Party of Philadelphia Division No. 30, N. F. S. D., at 1626 Arch Street, next Saturday evening, December 11th.

The annual election of Managers of All Souls' Guild and reorganization of the Board of Managers will be held on Tuesday evening, December 14th.

OMAHA.

On Saturday, November 6th, Mrs. Ota C. Blankenship and the Misses Cecilia Birk, Stacia Kuta, Nellie Johnson, Tena Anderson and Katherine Kilcoyne entertained a large of friends at a "Get Acquainted" number party in the girls' sitting-room at the Nebraska school. Owing to the disagreeable weather, a good many did not come. The sitting-room, study rooms, etc., have been greatly improved and are comfy and cosy like home. Stories and jokes were the order of the evening. Pie a la mode and coffee were served. It was evident that many took advantage of the affair to get better acquainted with others.

An entertainment was given by the Frat. November Committee, consisting of Riley E. Anthony, chairman, Chas. Flood and Chas. Macek, at the Nebraska School Auditorium Saturday night, the 20th, nearly 150 in attendance. There were many familiar faces we had not seen in a long time, and several out-of-town Frats came down to help swell the crowd. The program opened with a declamation, "The Storm," by H. G. Long. The stage had been set with trees, stumps, falling leaves, debris and lightning. The scene was a home by the sea, which with the approach of the storm was shattered. Darkness followed, thunder roared and lightning blazed as Mr. Long gave the poem, his clothes all tattered and torn. At the end he gave the storm dance, till struck by lightning. Next on the program was a talk by Dr. J. S. Long, entitled "Queer People," which proved very interesting. P. E. Seely followed with some tricks by a pet dog that he had trained in Sioux City. It was a handsome dog, but owing to the long auto trip it refused to do more than "wag its tail" and sit on a chair. Mr. Seely and Miss Clara Rice, of Sioux City, gave a series of tricks with cards.

Lawrence James gave a Humorous Reading, which brought down the laughs. Riley Anthony and Charles Flood, as Jeff and Mutt respectively in a shadow act, deserve mention, as their make-up, etc., in shadow was excellent, especially the Chinaman eating mice, which was received by a mixture of emotions. "The Farmer," who turned out to be Chas. Macek, was amusing. The rest of the evening was spent socially. During the entertainment nice big Jonathan apples, and delicious popcorn balls, made by the wives of the committee members, were sold like hot cakes. An interesting feature of the evening was the raffling off of a goose, duck and chickens, which were won by P. E. Seely, H. S. Lee and Dr. J. S. Long respectively. Out-of-town visitors were Messrs. Oliver Johnson, P. E. Seely, and William Koschne, Mrs. Effie Johnson Valentine, and Miss Clara Rice, all of Sioux City, and Tom Harris, of Onawa, Ia.

The Home Circle met at the spacious home of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Hurt, Monday evening, November 22d, with Mr. and Mrs. Hurt, Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Nelson, and Mr. and Mrs. John Thompson and David Eckstrom, as hosts and hostesses.

After the transaction of business, the evening was spent socially with old-fashioned games. The Circle is increasing considerably in membership and social activity. There are more than forty members if ye scribe has not been misinformed and it is rumored that they expect to give a leap year dance in December.

The Mid-West chapter of the G. C. A. A. was royally entertained the night of the 27th, at the lovely home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Grow in Council Bluffs, with Mr. and Mrs. Leo R. Holway as host and hostess. Mrs. Grow is a sister of the hostess.

All but two or three members were present, including the honorary members, Supt. and Mrs. Gruver, of the Iowa School, and Supt. and Mrs. Frank W. Booth, of the Nebraska School. Other guests were Miss Sherwood, teacher at the Omaha School; Miss Beth Thompson, who came up from the Kansas School; Miss Miller, a new teacher at the Iowa School, whose parents are deaf, and Miss Dorothy James, daughter of Lawrence James. Little June Dorothy Stevenson, grand-daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. S. Long was also there, the "littiest" guest, having come with Miss Thompson. She is a cute and plump little cherub.

After a short business meeting, "500" took the guests' attention the rest of the evening, at which Mrs. Harry G. Long and Dr. J. S. Long carried off highest honors. A handsome cut-glass flower basket and a pair of solid gold cuff links, were the prizes. Pink and yellow chrysanthemums were used in the decorations. Dainty refreshments, consisting of turkey sandwiches, nut bread, olives, pickles, coffee, pumpkin pie and cheese, of which every one had a good filling; in fact it was too good to pass up. The party broke up at well past 11 P.M.

We have just learned of the marriage of Miss Avadna Barnes and James Gomme, which took place September 22d. The news comes as a surprise to their friends. Both attended the Nebraska School and were former schoolmates.

Charles Dunker, who has been in Arkansas for the past several months, is now working in Florence, and was in Omaha Saturday, the 27th, renewing old acquaintances.

Harry Starke, who has been employed at the Goodyear factory in Akron, returned to Omaha, Thursday, December 1st, to remain till spring, as hundreds of employees have been laid off.

Ora H. Blanchard entertained a dozen of his friends at a jolly little party—yea, a limburger cheese party, Friday evening, November 12th, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sowell. With "hot dogs" steaming in a big kettle, the coffee sending its refreshing odor through the rooms, nice big dill pickles, limburger cheese sandwiches piled high on the table, rosy cheeked Jonathans and plenty of doughnuts, every one had a wonderful appetite. Both the sense of humor and the sense of smell were agreeably entertained. The unappreciative head of the house was made the victim of both. Being English, he could not enjoy the tempting sandwiches, the piece-resistance of the menu. The guests decided to have another spread before long. Anyone extra fond of limburger cheese will please send in their names, and it will not be Mr. Blanchard's fault if they are not on hand with the rest of them.

FREDERICK, MD.

Recently we were honored with a visit from Governor Albert C. Ritchie, of Annapolis, accompanied by Colonel E. A. Baughman, State Automobile Commissioner. The Governor addressed the faculty and student body in the chapel. He expressed himself as greatly pleased and surprised with rhythm classes. After inspecting the various buildings he reviewed the cadets at drill. He left us with the promise of another visit in the near future.

With the close of the soccer season, in which our boys emerged with an equal number of victories and defeats, basketball has again appeared in the lime-light. It is probable that next year may see our entrance into the County Soccer League, as we have a team worthy of recognition. Last Friday the Y. M. C. A. Reserves came to our court to open the season with a game against our boys. They were surprised and beaten by our boys, who put up a mid-season brand of ball. The playing of the deaf lads has improved considerably in team work and passing. Manager Benson was highly pleased with the results and is confident of a victory over the strong Blue Ridge College team, which we will tackle in New Windsor, Md., this Saturday.

Not long ago Principal Bjorlee was called to his home in Iowa to attend to some important business matters. He returned after a brief absence.

Miss Mary Benson, daughter of our printing instructor, was a visitor on Thanksgiving Day. Miss Benson is now a student at the Maryland State Normal School in Baltimore.

Quite a number of the older pupils went to the Armory last Friday night to see the game between the Y. M. C. A. and Baltimore Collegians. This is Noah Downes', former Gallaudet star, first appearance on the local team. From all appearances, Noah seems to have taken his former stride and was easily the star of the evening.

Miss Margaret Peablies, who is now a student at Gallaudet College, paid a brief visit to her Alma Mater a week ago. She stopped off at Frederick enroute to Washington, D. C., after spending the Thanksgiving recess at home.

A recent announcement on the bulletin board gives the date of December 22d as the start of the Christmas recess, on which day the pupils will leave for their respective homes, and return on Jan. 5th.

Bayshore, Long Island

The following is taken from the Bayshore Journal:

"John P. Van Nort died at his home here last Thursday from acute dilatation of the heart and acute articular rheumatism, aged sixty-five years. He was born in Bay Shore, the son of Joseph Van Nort and Hannah Hubbard, and lived here all his life, being deaf, dumb and lame. The funeral was held on Saturday, interment being made in Oakwood Cemetery, the Rev. William R. Watson officiating. His son, John, Jr., came from Medford, Mass., to arrange for the funeral, and his daughter, Mrs. MacNichol, with her husband, from Brooklyn, also attended the funeral."

Mr. and Mrs. George Abrams spend a week-end with Mr. and Mrs. F. Roberts at their home in Bayshore, L. I., lately.

During the month of October Mrs. Leo Greis and daughter, of Bayport, L. I., spent a Sunday as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. F. Roberts in Bayshore, L. I.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert, of Amityville, L. I., on a Sunday recently took dinner with Mr. and Mrs. F. Roberts.

Mr. and Mrs. William Wells, educated in England, and Mr. and Mrs. F. Roberts are the only deaf-mutes residing in Bayshore, L. I.

Mrs. Woolner, sister of Mrs. William Wells, who was educated at the Fanwood School in New York City, was married to a hearing man, a Mr. Westerman, of this city (Bayshore), and has moved to Jersey City, to live.

BOSTON.

The fair held at Emmanuel Church on Tuesday, November 9th netted our "Building Fund" $217. Mrs. Haynes was in charge, assisted by the choir girls and some members of Trinity Church. On November 24th a "Shadow Pantomime" was given in the library of the Parish house. Mrs. Brown was in charge, assisted by Miss Wetmore and Miss Green. Mrs. Hull won the box of "Cestrum" candy, for having guessed the names of the greater number of shadows.

There were about forty people present at the whist party, held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Williams, in Allston, on Friday evening, November 26th. Admission was fifty cents, which went toward the fund for purchases for the fair to be held at Trinity Parish house on December 8th. The fair is to be given by the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Everett Home for Aged Deaf. Admission, ten cents.

The Deaf Okioayapi, composed of Camp Fire girls, gave an exhibition at the "Home" on Sunday afternoon, November 28th, with lay-reader Light acting as chaplain. Miss Bessie Lockery is Guardian and is assisted by L. F. Clark.

Mr. and Louis F. Weston announce the marriage of their daughter, Louise Page, to Mr. Waldo Strickney Gale, on Thursday, November 25th, 1920, at the bride's home in Belmont. They are now on a honeymoon trip to New York and New Jersey, where the bride has relatives.

Another wedding which is expected to be of interest to the deaf is that of Miss Cora Crocker, the beautiful deaf-blind lady of Everett, to Mr. Edwin Frisbee, our lay-reader. Announcements have not as yet been sent out, but it is understood that that event will take place in January.

Mrs. William Rudolph and Mr. Wallace Anderson are the two new inmates at the Home in Everett.

The Frats will hold their annual Fancy Costume Ball at Horticultural Hall, Boston, on New Year's Eve. Tickets, 55 cents.

Harrisburg Notes.

That the deaf of Harrisburg and Steelton are determined in their efforts to have a church of their own was demonstrated on Saturday evening, November 20th, when at an oyster supper and auction, a two-pound box of fudge made by Mrs. Aaron Buchter was auctioned off to Charles Blessing for $10. Although Cloyd Christian lost the above, he later won another one-pound box made by Mrs. Lawrence George for $5.00. All told the receipts amounted to $24.00.

The proposed Church is to be named St. Sebastian's Church, and with pledges by the deaf themselves, of $800, $400 already earned through socials, etc., and benefactors of the missionary service to the deaf of $1,500 and the nation wide campaign of which the proposed church is to have a share amounting to $5,000, the sum of $8,000 to be raised seems possible, notwithstanding the small number of deaf in this city.

The Misses Elva Wolf, of Sunbury, and Melissa Howe, of Carlisle, were visitors in town and took in the above named social.

Mr. Harry H. Weaver, of Reading, Pa., was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin C. Ritchie, formerly of Reading.

Mr. John Blottenberger's house, which he rented for the past seven years was sold, and after a hard time he succeeded in buying his own house, which is more centrally located. Houses for rent in this city are few and high in price.

Edgar Shaffer spent a day in Reading during Thanksgiving holidays, and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wise spent the holidays at the latter's home in York, Pa.

Mr. Thomas Jones was confined to the Harrisburg Hospital, but he is on the road to recovery.

"Rex" the Greensburg scribe, contemplates a trip to Warsaw, Indiana, about three days before Christmas, where he will spend his annual vacation with his brother and family. He expects to enjoy the joys of Christmastide in Hoosierdom. He may find it convenient to take an interurban go to Goshen and Elkhart.
